

The new north newsletter “Northern Lights” was launched this year and lots of articles are now available on the new North LKS website - the first editorial issue in the new format was published at the start of May providing a roundup of everything from the previous quarter. This year there will also be a special issue focussing on the learning from the “It’s Great up North” conference. We have also recruited two new members to the Editorial Group, Hugh Hanchard (Library Manager, South Tees Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust) and Ingrid Francis (Enquiry Services Librarian, The Christie NHS Foundation Trust). We would like to remind you that anyone, at any level, working in or alongside the three networks in the North is welcome to submit an article to northern-lights@lksnorth.nhs.uk

We’d like to thank you for contributions to LIHNNKup over the years and welcome your support with the new pan-North newsletter “Northern Lights”. The objective is still to share information and expertise – just across the whole of the North!

The Northern Lights Editorial Group

(Image sourced free for commercial use from Pixabay. No attribution required.)

The new north newsletter “Northern Lights” was launched this year and lots of articles are now available on the new North LKS website - the first editorial issue in the new format was published at the start of May providing a roundup of everything from the previous quarter. This year there will also be a special issue focussing on the learning from the “It’s Great up North” conference. We have also recruited two new members to the Editorial Group, Hugh Hanchard (Library Manager, South Tees Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust) and Ingrid Francis (Enquiry Services Librarian, The Christie NHS Foundation Trust). We would like to remind you that anyone, at any level, working in or alongside the three networks in the North is welcome to submit an article to northern-lights@lksnorth.nhs.uk

We’d like to thank you for contributions to LIHNNKup over the years and welcome your support with the new pan-North newsletter “Northern Lights”. The objective is still to share information and expertise – just across the whole of the North!

The Northern Lights Editorial Group

(Image sourced free for commercial use from Pixabay. No attribution required.)

The new north newsletter “Northern Lights” was launched this year and lots of articles are now available on the new North LKS website - the first editorial issue in the new format was published at the start of May providing a roundup of everything from the previous quarter. This year there will also be a special issue focussing on the learning from the “It’s Great up North” conference. We have also recruited two new members to the Editorial Group, Hugh Hanchard (Library Manager, South Tees Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust) and Ingrid Francis (Enquiry Services Librarian, The Christie NHS Foundation Trust). We would like to remind you that anyone, at any level, working in or alongside the three networks in the North is welcome to submit an article to northern-lights@lksnorth.nhs.uk

We’d like to thank you for contributions to LIHNNKup over the years and welcome your support with the new pan-North newsletter “Northern Lights”. The objective is still to share information and expertise – just across the whole of the North!

The Northern Lights Editorial Group

(Image sourced free for commercial use from Pixabay. No attribution required.)

The new north newsletter “Northern Lights” was launched this year and lots of articles are now available on the new North LKS website - the first editorial issue in the new format was published at the start of May providing a roundup of everything from the previous quarter. This year there will also be a special issue focussing on the learning from the “It’s Great up North” conference. We have also recruited two new members to the Editorial Group, Hugh Hanchard (Library Manager, South Tees Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust) and Ingrid Francis (Enquiry Services Librarian, The Christie NHS Foundation Trust). We would like to remind you that anyone, at any level, working in or alongside the three networks in the North is welcome to submit an article to northern-lights@lksnorth.nhs.uk

We’d like to thank you for contributions to LIHNNKup over the years and welcome your support with the new pan-North newsletter “Northern Lights”. The objective is still to share information and expertise – just across the whole of the North!

The Northern Lights Editorial Group

(Image sourced free for commercial use from Pixabay. No attribution required.)

The new north newsletter “Northern Lights” was launched this year and lots of articles are now available on the new North LKS website - the first editorial issue in the new format was published at the start of May providing a roundup of everything from the previous quarter. This year there will also be a special issue focussing on the learning from the “It’s Great up North” conference. We have also recruited two new members to the Editorial Group, Hugh Hanchard (Library Manager, South Tees Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust) and Ingrid Francis (Enquiry Services Librarian, The Christie NHS Foundation Trust). We would like to remind you that anyone, at any level, working in or alongside the three networks in the North is welcome to submit an article to northern-lights@lksnorth.nhs.uk

We’d like to thank you for contributions to LIHNNKup over the years and welcome your support with the new pan-North newsletter “Northern Lights”. The objective is still to share information and expertise – just across the whole of the North!

The Northern Lights Editorial Group

(Image sourced free for commercial use from Pixabay. No attribution required.)

The new north newsletter “Northern Lights” was launched this year and lots of articles are now available on the new North LKS website - the first editorial issue in the new format was published at the start of May providing a roundup of everything from the previous quarter. This year there will also be a special issue focussing on the learning from the “It’s Great up North” conference. We have also recruited two new members to the Editorial Group, Hugh Hanchard (Library Manager, South Tees Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust) and Ingrid Francis (Enquiry Services Librarian, The Christie NHS Foundation Trust). We would like to remind you that anyone, at any level, working in or alongside the three networks in the North is welcome to submit an article to northern-lights@lksnorth.nhs.uk

We’d like to thank you for contributions to LIHNNKup over the years and welcome your support with the new pan-North newsletter “Northern Lights”. The objective is still to share information and expertise – just across the whole of the North!

The Northern Lights Editorial Group

(Image sourced free for commercial use from Pixabay. No attribution required.)

The new north newsletter “Northern Lights” was launched this year and lots of articles are now available on the new North LKS website - the first editorial issue in the new format was published at the start of May providing a roundup of everything from the previous quarter. This year there will also be a special issue focussing on the learning from the “It’s Great up North” conference. We have also recruited two new members to the Editorial Group, Hugh Hanchard (Library Manager, South Tees Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust) and Ingrid Francis (Enquiry Services Librarian, The Christie NHS Foundation Trust). We would like to remind you that anyone, at any level, working in or alongside the three networks in the North is welcome to submit an article to northern-lights@lksnorth.nhs.uk

We’d like to thank you for contributions to LIHNNKup over the years and welcome your support with the new pan-North newsletter “Northern Lights”. The objective is still to share information and expertise – just across the whole of the North!

The Northern Lights Editorial Group

(Image sourced free for commercial use from Pixabay. No attribution required.)

The new north newsletter “Northern Lights” was launched this year and lots of articles are now available on the new North LKS website - the first editorial issue in the new format was published at the start of May providing a roundup of everything from the previous quarter. This year there will also be a special issue focussing on the learning from the “It’s Great up North” conference. We have also recruited two new members to the Editorial Group, Hugh Hanchard (Library Manager, South Tees Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust) and Ingrid Francis (Enquiry Services Librarian, The Christie NHS Foundation Trust). We would like to remind you that anyone, at any level, working in or alongside the three networks in the North is welcome to submit an article to northern-lights@lksnorth.nhs.uk

We’d like to thank you for contributions to LIHNNKup over the years and welcome your support with the new pan-North newsletter “Northern Lights”. The objective is still to share information and expertise – just across the whole of the North!

The Northern Lights Editorial Group

(Image sourced free for commercial use from Pixabay. No attribution required.)