

Posting a Northern Lights Editorial

Introduction

This guide takes you through the process of posting a Northern Lights editorial. In order to carry out this process you need access to a content management system (CMS) called Umbraco. To be set up with a username and password, please contact Gil Young at gil.young@hee.nhs.uk

You will see a screen similar to Figure 3: click on the Create newsletter button.

The naming convention for Northern Lights is as follows: “Northern Lights Editorial Issue” followed by the number of the issue (Figure 4).

After entering the name of the issue, click on the Create button. You will see the page where you create the newsletter. You will be able to save a draft of the document at any time by clicking on the Save button in the top right hand corner of the screen (Figure 5). You can also Preview your editorial by clicking on the Preview button.

The image shows three buttons arranged horizontally. From left to right: a green button with the text 'Save', a grey button with the text 'Preview', and a dark grey button with the text 'Send Options'.

Welcome to the first edition of 'Northern Lights'. This newsletter will now appear regularly in your inbox every quarter. As you are no doubt aware, 'Northern Lights' is the successor to LIHNNK-UP, which was first published 18 years ago. Much has changed in those 18 years. The word 'blog' has come into everyday use and the word twitter is now a noun, as well as a verb. We hope to take advantage of these changes. In addition to this quarterly email, articles submitted to 'Northern Lights' will appear on the 'LKS North Blog' and tweeted on HCLU's Twitter account. Thus the new format represents change, but does it represent growth? C.S. Lewis wrote that growth is a mixture of continuity and change and 'where there is no continuity there is no growth.'¹ In this sense I hope that 'Northern Lights' also represents continuity. LIHNNK-Up was originally intended as a forum for the sharing of information and expertise across the North-West. This is still the objective of 'Northern Lights', but now for the whole of the North.

Pasting the content of the article

Copy the article from Word into Notepad: this un-formats the article. Then copy the article from Notepad to the editing area in the CMS. You will need to recreate the hyperlinks: see the section of inserting hyperlinks.

Inserting hyperlinks

Highlight the text you want to hyperlink and click on the link icon in the menu (Figure 6). You will see Figure 7. Type or paste the link in the Link field. In the Link title field you can add some alt text to aid accessibility. The alt attribute is used by "screen reader" software so that a person who is listening to the content of a webpage (for instance, a person who is blind) can interact with this element (see next section on images). Once you have filled in the fields, click Submit.

Publishing the newsletter

The Northern Lights Editorial is sent out as an email. Once you are ready to send out your email click on Send Options (Figure 8).

You are presented the three options shown in Figure 9.

Send out a test e-mail: it is recommended that you send out a test email at least once before sending out to the distribution list. This will allow you to see the final result and check the links in the email.

Send e-mail right now: Once you are happy with the editorial you can send out the email immediately. Make sure that the Northern Lights distribution list is chosen.

Schedule the send out for later: You can schedule the email to be sent at a later time. Figure 10 shows an example of setting up a schedule for sending out the editorial. Again, notice that Northern Lights is chosen as the distribution list.
